

MAKING PLANS FOR A TIE-UP

Business Agent Barry Goes To New York and Boston On A Secret Mission.

SEEKS SYMPATHY IN THE EAST

Striking Teamsters Have Lost Valuable Allies In Their Present Troubles--Mayer Goes To See Platt.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPPS-M'RAE.]
Chicago, May 27.—The action of the Building Trades' association in discontinuing their contributions to the teamsters' strike fund is regarded as a serious blow to the teamsters in the conduct of their strike. The withdrawal of the support is said to be due to the controversy between the teamsters and the structural iron workers, who claim the teamsters are in the habit of handling iron after delivery when it should have been turned over to the other union.

No Extension
Aside from a few small concerns there is no material extension of the strike today. Attorneys for the unions are preparing to ask for a writ of habeas corpus for James H. Donahue and Bernard Mulligan, two union men sentenced to jail for contempt of court in refusing to answer questions. The examination of President Shea will continue before Master of Chancery Sherman on Monday. There are no signs of any settlement.

Mayer Goes East
Attorney Levy Mayer, representing the Employers' association, left today for New York on business in connection with the strike. It is reported on good authority Mayer was summoned by Senator Platt and that the move presages a determined campaign against the union express-drivers by the express companies.

Bar the Negroes
The employers of the teaming company for the State street department stores today notified Chief O'Neill they would refuse to accept any more negro policemen as guards for wagons, as the negroes draw attacks by mobs. O'Neill has decided to bar colored applicants hereafter.

Plan to Extend Strike Zone.
While preparations to throw out the legal dragnet are under way, strike leaders, some of whom are already under indictment for alleged boycotting, are understood to be planning a gigantic haul that may bring the union teamsters of other large cities into close sympathetic relations with the striking drivers of Chicago and embarrass the express service throughout the country.

Indications of a move of this kind are seen in a mysterious errand to the East, which was started upon Friday night by James B. Barry, business agent of the Railway Express Drivers and Conductors' union, and Thomas Hughes, business agent of the Lime and Cement Teamsters' union.

New York and Boston are said to be their objective points, and while it was semi-officially announced that mission was to raise funds to assist in carrying on the fight in Chicago, there are good reasons for believing that deeper motives underlie their journey.

Barry, who was indicted with Shea and other union leaders for alleged conspiracy against Montgomery Ward & Co. by the April grand jury, is one of the shrewdest of the strike directors.

Guess at Barry's Mission.
With the machinery for raising strike benefit funds set in motion some time ago, and still working, it is not considered probable that matters pertaining solely to finance are considered sufficiently urgent to require the talents of Mr. Barry at a distance from the center of the stage at this critical time.

It was Barry's intention to leave Chicago Thursday night, and it may have been merely a coincidence that he became in a hurry to make his departure just after the statement of Senator Platt, president of the United States Express company, putting a quietus on all hopes of settling the strike through some concession to the express drivers' demands, was telegraphed from New York.

At the conclusion of the proceedings before Judge Kohlsaat Thursday afternoon Barry confided to Attorney Levy Mayer that he had important business out of town, and that he wanted to get away on the first train. He asked as a favor that he be excused from appearing in court Friday. Mr. Mayer waited him on the stand again, however, but promised to get through with him as quickly as possible.

Outside of New York and Boston in the east, Kansas City in the west is regarded as a field where the unions might strive to spread the sympathetic strike, so that eventually Chicago might become simply the central point of a war area extending over a vast territory.

May Indict Leaders Again.
More indictments against President Shea and a number of other strike leaders may be voted by the grand jury next week. The indictments returned by the previous grand jury against Shea and eleven other labor leaders were for conspiracy against Ward & Co., but since the spread of the strike, it is said, these men are equally indictable for establishing boycotts against a number of other firms.

Demands from both sides of the controversy for an opportunity to present evidence of alleged unlawful acts have been so great that the grand jury next Monday will begin a thorough inquiry into all phases of the strike conditions.

Labor leaders will ask the grand jury to find true bills against the officials of the various railway express companies on the charge of "black-listing." It is reported that Business Agent Barry has had some of the strikers working as detectives and that he will try to prove that an unlawful agreement exists among the managers of the companies barring from employment any of the men who went on strike.

Much evidence, it is said, will be presented by the employers' association to show the existence of violence and intimidation against nonunion drivers.

Violence in Lumber District.
Violence—at a minimum for several days previous—broke out in the lumber district and kept Assistant Chief Schuetter's flying squadrons busy.

The whole system of provisional police is roundly condemned by the employers' officials, and the inference is that the employing interests believe that uniformed troops are the sole salvation for the continuance of industry. "We had 125 men we might have assigned the lumbermen as drivers," said Victor W. Shidore of the employers' association, "but the firms will not accept them as long as they are liable to be stoned and killed. More men are coming, and Monday we will try to put 500 drivers at work in the lumber district. It remains to be seen what the local authorities can do to afford protection."

"I have filed every requisition for policemen," said Chief O'Neill. "Firms may claim they cannot get all the policemen they want, but if I were to grant every requisition according to the desires of hysterical people I would never be able to fill the bill. Wagons are being protected by one policeman, but some of the merchants want five or six for one wagon."

Unions Are at Odds.
While the teamsters say they are fighting for justice, their treatment of other unions came in for severe censure at the hands of the Associated Building Trades of Cook county. Members of the Safe and Machinery Movers' Union, who were affiliated with the teamsters, are accused of erecting certain machinery after hauling it to new buildings, thereby depriving a sister union of the work, and a motion was adopted withholding moral and financial aid from the teamsters until such time as they make their peace with the building trades unions.

A half-dozen of the building trades unions have been compelled in the past to call strikes where the safe and machinery movers' local erected the machinery, and such strikes are now on at the Northwestern Railroad building and at the Chicago Savings Bank building, State and Madison streets.

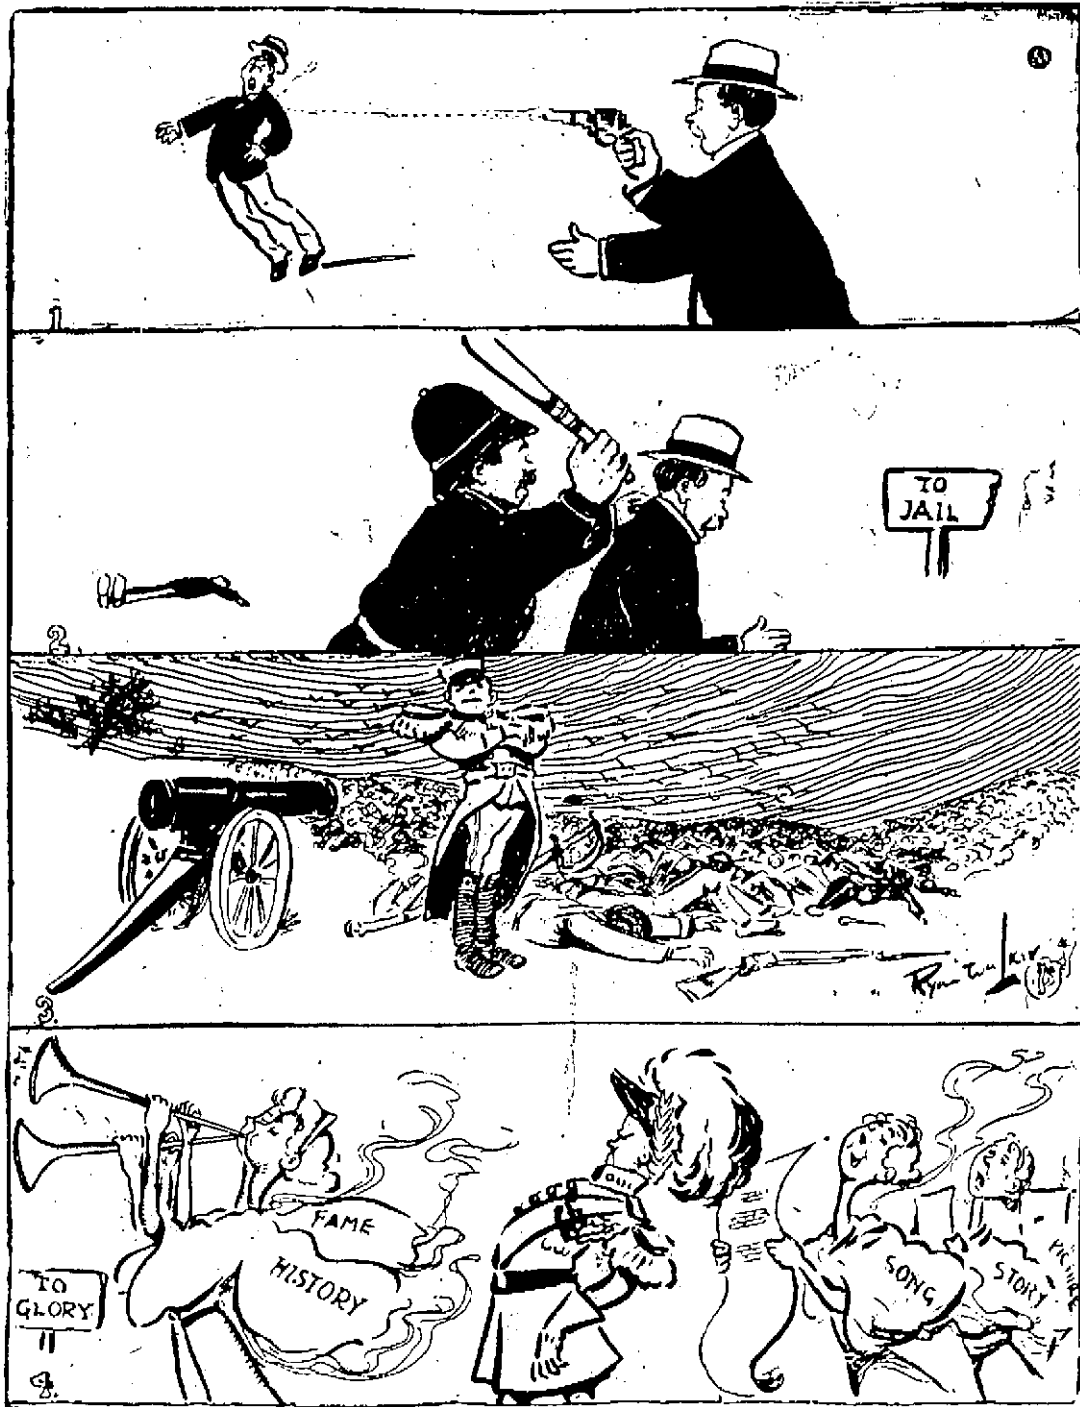

The Elevator Constructors' Union has been at war with this local of the teamsters for nearly two years, because the teamsters always placed or erected the elevator material, they hauled to new buildings; while the carpenters went on strike more than a year ago when this same local of teamsters, after hauling material to the Garfield Park terminal of the Metropolitan elevated road, erected the scaffolding and other necessary appliances and forced the carpenters off the job. The carpenters afterward secured this work.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPPS-M'RAE.]
Boston, Mass., May 27.—Organized labor of every line in Boston has been asked by the American Federation of Labor to take steps immediately to financially assist the Chicago teamsters to win their strike. The teamsters' unions meet tomorrow to take action on the request.

MAY MEAN TROUBLE IN THE MINES NEXT

Executive Board of Mine Workers is in Session in Springfield Today.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPPS-M'RAE.]
Springfield, Ill., May 27.—The executive board of the Illinois Mine Workers' union met here today and will prepare an answer to the operators respecting the shot-frogs' bill. They will insist the operators pay the wages of the shot-frogs and this will likely cause suspension in the coal mining of Illinois as the operators contend the bill is in violation of the last contract with the miners.

RUSS AND JAP IN SEA BATTLE

Rumor From Tokio Will Not Be Downed That Fight Has Taken Place Already.

Men Versed In Naval Warfare Cannot Understand The News From The Orient, And Say The Outlook Is Ominous.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPPS-M'RAE.]

Tokio, May 27.—It is rumored here that the Japanese and Russian fleets, under Vice Admiral Togo and Vice Admiral Rojestvensky, have engaged in the Korean straits.

Fleet Quite Vladivostok.
Tsingtau, May 27.—A private telegram received here says the Russian Vladivostok fleet has left Vladivostok going in a southerly direction.

The whole Russian fleet is reported to be assembled near Woosung, and the German squadron at Tsingtau is preparing for eventualities.

Russians Ignore Chinese Order.
Shanghai, May 27.—The Russian vessels that were off the Saddle Islands left Friday night.

The Chinese authorities ordered the vessels of the Russian volunteer fleet which were anchored off Woosung to leave within twenty-four hours. The Russians thus far have ignored the order.

Extends Zone to Mongolia.
London, May 27.—The Times' correspondent at St. Petersburg says that Russia's decision to extend the area of hostilities into Mongolia has evoked sentiment akin to consternation among the diplomats there. It is regarded, he says, as the first step toward annexation and the opening up of the question of the partition of China.

Puzzles Naval Experts.

Naval officials in London are puzzled by the latest dispatches from the orient, but all admit that the war situation is more ominous than for a long time. Shanghai reports indications that Admiral Rojestvensky has divided his fleet, the message saying that seventeen ships of the Baltic squadron anchored Thursday night at the Saddle Islands, a group of twenty-five islands, sixty miles southeast of Shanghai. At the same time three vessels of the Russian volunteer fleet, the Vladimir, Voronej and Yaroslav, and three colliers, the Livonia, Meteor and Curonia, were anchored off Shanghai.

If this information be true at least part of Rojestvensky's armada has steamed up through the straits of Formosa, either eluding Togo or discovering that the Japanese fleet awaits battle elsewhere. It is believed the seventeen Russian ships coaled at Saddle Islands preparatory to proceeding for Vladivostok.

Dispatches from Tokio announce the Japanese belief that Rojestvensky has divided his fleet as a strategic move to draw out Togo. Whatever the real situation, it is thought a sea battle cannot be delayed much longer.

MILLIONS GIVEN BY STATE LEGISLATURE

University Appropriation Is Passed by the Senate This Morning—Other Laws.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., May 27.—More than a million dollars appropriation bills were passed in the legislature today, the senate passing under suspension of rules the university appropriation bill for two-sevenths of a mill tax or about $630,000 a year, and other smaller bills, and the assembly passing the tuberculosis sanitarian measure to appropriate $90,000 for a consumptive hospital. The warring elements on the mortgage taxation bill in the assembly entered into a temporary truce and allowed the business to proceed without renewing a call of the house that locked the doors last night. By sharp parliamentary practice Senator Roehr succeeded in calling up a motion to reconsider the vote of Friday, killing the Milwaukee fire and police "hearing before discharge" bill and that measure was finally and forever killed.

Beloit Bill Passes
The Beloit municipal court bill passed in the senate after an amendment to allow the county board chairman to approve the judge's bond, avoiding the calling of the board and fixing the date of expiration of the justice courts.

Shanghai, May 27.—The Russian war vessels that were off Saddle Island left last night.

CALL OF THE HOUSE TIED UP STATE LEGISLATURE

Peculiar Scenes Enacted In The Capitol At Madison Last Night... Hunt For Members.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., May 27.—Until 12:30 this morning the Wisconsin assembly, or 53 members thereof, was locked in the assembly chamber under a call of the house. Adjournment was taken then, with the announcement that the call would be resumed this morning and continued until all the 100 members were present. The call arose over an attempt to pass the mortgage taxation bill. The opposition demanded that it be laid over to next week and the friends of the measure refused. Then the opponents brought about a call of the house and tied up business. Now the friends of the measure declare that no business will be transacted until every member absent without leave is brought to Madison and a full vote is had. This will pass the bill. For hours last night the 53 members locked in the chamber sang and drank through windows, threw paper at the heads of each other and indulged in pranks that made the scene memorable for disorder. As many of the absent ones are far away at their homes, it will be impossible to resume business until next week unless an agreement is reached, which leaders of both sides declare is impossible. The sergeant-at-arms had his entire force of nearly 100 men scouring the city to find members, but practically every absentee was out of the city. Telegrams were dispatched to these, but few can reach Madison before Monday. Most of the absentees are those who have tired of this longest session in the history of the state and went away because they said the state could no longer keep them from their homes and business affairs.

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT.
It was said of A. T. Stewart, the great dry goods man of New York, 40 years ago, that he never placed a man at the head of a department who had not at some time in his life failed in business.

Mr. Stewart recognized the value of failure. He had made the discovery which many people overlook, that when people honestly fail it is evidence of the fact that they have been trying to do something. That back of the failure was an ambition to succeed. The head of a department carries with it responsibility. The position demands good judgment, the ability to direct, and every other requisite required in business except financing. No time is demanded in planning for a Saturday night pay roll, and no energy expended in worry over the inability to discount bills at maturity. Many honest business failures occur through lack of capital, and where this is the only cause the man possesses every other requisite necessary to success and his ability is frequently turned to good account by men who have abundance of capital.

Failure is the common lot of humanity but it may be turned to good account and result in blessing rather than misfortune. It is not the falling that means defeat, but the failure to get up and renew the struggle. The strongest men and women of this or any other generation, are the men and women who possess the elasticity to come to the surface in spite of failure, and the energy to overcome obstacles which seem insurmountable. The boy who lays down his book in school and says "I can't" has made his first failure, and unless the parent or teacher is wise enough to put him on his feet and fling him with ambition to overcome, his future is not difficult to forecast.

His life will not be a succession of failures because no effort will be expended. It will simply be failure at the commencement of the journey. There are many people in every community who make this kind of a failure. Back in the years of preparation, the years which never come but once, and the most important of any period in existence, they know more than the father, mother or teacher, and so they took the responsibility of going out into life with no equipment but a pair of hands, and a mind so meagre that the first draft upon it exhausted every resource.

It is true that men sometimes succeed in making money, who can hardly write their own name, but these are exceptions. Nature endowed them with the money-making faculty, and if to this had been added a liberal equipment of mind wealth and mental intelligence, success would follow in larger degree, and ambition would not be satisfied in simply accumulating wealth. The average young man who enters life with a rattled brain and a mind so vacant that "opportunities are to be let" at every corner, stands but little show in the race which stretches on through the years and which is crowded at every gateway with strong competitors, eager for the fray.

It will pay every boy in school as he reaches the age of unrest and undecision, to take a day off and carefully study the picture of life which stretches out before him like a great panorama. A viewpoint of advantage may be had from any doorstep, for the race is on, 24 hours of every day and seven days in the week the year round. Here is a little group of boys who left school last year impressed with the notion that they could take up any kind of work and perform it better than it had ever been done before. After a year of vain effort they are still waiting to enter the race. They have added to their accomplishments by learning to smoke, and their vocabulary induces a choice line of profanity, while their principle occupation is loafing. You study the picture for a moment and say, "I don't want to join that class." A little farther down the line is a company of young men who have succeeded in gaining a slippery foothold on the edge. They are industrious workers, and filling as large a place as they are capable of filling. If they should drop out of the ranks today, their places would be filled tomorrow, for the waiting list is crowded with young men who have but little to offer, save the service of the hand. The work they do is important, but the supply of capital they invest is always in excess of the demand, and you conclude that you do not care to join their ranks. Down the line another decade is an army of middle aged men in stores, offices and factories who decided years ago that the prizes of life were beyond their grasp. Opportunities came to them in the earlier years, but lack of confidence in personal ability was a bar to advancement, and so they have settled down to a routine which yields them a comfortable living, but with no prospect for a competency.

This brigade looks attractive, because it is well dressed and orderly, and the work it is performing so faithfully and well contributes to prosperity but it hardly satisfies your boyish ambition. Your eye is attracted to another column of men who are fast approaching the age limit. For 30 or 40 years they have been a part of the procession. They have little to show for the time and energy expended and as you put yourself in their place for a few moments and glance into the future, there is but little to cheer and comfort, and you turn away with a determination to make better provision for the future.

Back in the dust of the rapidly advancing line are the old men, whose feeble step and impaired faculties speak of a hard struggle and defeat. Many of them are weak and dependent. If you talk with them they will tell you that the first mistake they made was in not equipping themselves for the journey, and you decide very wisely not to make the same blunder.

If you studied both sides of the picture you discovered boys who were going to the front with no uncertain stride. Young men who were filling places of responsibility like veterans. Middle aged men who were conducting great enterprises successfully, and mature men who were directing in every department. You also noticed a sprinkling of old men who were passing through the golden age in full possession of faculties and rich in experience.

These are the characters who never recognize the word fail. The boys and men who never say "I'll try" but "I can't." They recognize life as a great battlefield and entering it fully equipped for the contest no obstacle is too great to be surmounted. Honest failure is not a hindrance to permanent success. Knowledge comes through experience, and mistakes are avoided when discovered. Every young man owes it to himself to win, and opportunities will favor him if he possesses ability to grasp them when presented.

AN IMPORTANT MEASURE.
A bill is now before the legislature asking for an appropriation of $10,000 to aid in the work of establishing a health park for consumptives in the pine woods of Wisconsin.

A state organization with 600 members, known as the Wisconsin Health Park Association, is behind the movement, and a tract of land of some 240 acres is held by option, to be used in establishing a park as soon as money can be secured.

This is a philanthropic work and worthy of every encouragement. The members of the society have already contributed freely and a few hundred dollars more will secure a clear title to the property. The appropriation asked for is to equip the camp with necessary buildings and outfit. It is a well recognized fact that thousands of people go west and south every year in search of relief from a disease which baffles medical skill.

Experience has demonstrated that the fresh air treatment in any wholesome climate is more effective than any other class of treatment. The pine woods of Wisconsin are famous for health restoring qualities and if the state will provide a place where invalids can feel free to go, there is no doubt that it would soon become popular as a health resort.

The plan is not a money-making proposition. It is purely philanthropic and humanitarian. Many invalids are unable to visit the coast and other resorts which are noted for expense, who would be glad to avail themselves of an opportunity to al to the senate and securing his place for six years, it should be possible for Wisconsin republicans to drop personalities and devote their time to an orderly adjustment of party differences. Hope springs eternal, but it is not to be. There will never be peace until one side or the other is ready to quit. Does anybody honestly think that that stage has been reached?

Green Bay Gazette: When such papers as the Milwaukee Sentinel and Free Press begin to talk of harmony in the republican party there is certainly something to it in spite of the fact that the Milwaukee Journal prophesies differently. Coming events cast their shadows before, and more than one thing points to a patching up of the quarrel that has so long caused trouble in the ranks. The Journal, after admitting appearances in its favor, draws a contrary conclusion in the following: "Will the passage of the freight rate bill and the factionalism in the republican party in Wisconsin? The half breed organ says there is more good feeling than has existed among the warring elements as any time during the past four years." The stalwart organ says: "With La Follette's removal to the days of peril is not close. It was then customary for the peasants to beat the marshes at night, that the noise of the bullfrogs might not disturb the titled sleepers."
Madison Journal: The trial of Bigelow seems to be delayed according to the rules of the judicial game. Thus there is afforded the fullest and most reasonable opportunity for those interested to pass away by death or to recoup themselves by the growth of the country or to contract paresis and forget whether Bigelow robbed them or they robbed Bigelow. The strain on many under our court system is nothing compared to the rupture liability on public patience.

MANY LABORERS COME TOMORROW

ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTY NORTH-WESTERN EMPLOYEES.

TRACKS WILL BE GRADED

Gravel Pit North of City Now Being Worked—Nearly Two Hundred Men Are There.

Commencing Monday and continuing for about twenty days the tracks of the North-Western road on the outskirts of the city and for a few miles beyond the limits will be alive with workmen and gravel trains. One hundred and fifty American laborers who have been at work in and around Atton for the past several weeks will be brought to this city tomorrow and here make their headquarters for a number of weeks. They will be engaged in the work of raising the tracks of the company six inches.

Will Raise Rails
Gravel has been placed on the different lines and the rails and ties will be brought up to the surface, they now being all but covered. This will be done in all places where it can possibly be accomplished without necessitating changes other than in the road-bed. In the city where streets cross over the rails and in the vicinity of the depots it could not be done. The workmen will occupy four bunk cars and three dining coaches, and there will also be a cook's car and foreman's private coach. The side-track near the Cronk brewery has been extended recently for the accommodation of these cars.

Pit Opened Yesterday
The old gravel pit about a mile north of the city on the northern Wisconsin division of the road has been reopened and operations were commenced there yesterday with a full force of men. There is a steam shovel, a train crew and in the neighborhood of two hundred laborers at work there now. The digging and handling of the product is under the supervision of Division Superintendent P. J. O'Brien. Between four and five gravel trains will be sent out from here daily during the summer for grading work not only near Janesville but along the entire northern Wisconsin division.

Help to Janesville
These men employed in the pit all board in Janesville and the others who are engaged in the grading work will have to draw on local stores for their food supply for some time. This will be a great help to Janesville, not only in this way but it will also keep many men employed on the road who would otherwise be idle a large part of the summer.

Expect Busy Season
The grading is being done in preparation for the exceedingly heavy season that is anticipated for next winter. More traffic than ever before the North-Western officials expect to handle over the lines through here. The season will open about the middle of September and begin to become very busy about the end of October and first of November and continue until along next spring.

MAY ESTABLISH SHEEP STATION AT LADYSMITH

Arthur Stricker Plans to Use 2,000
Acre Ranch for 10,000
Head.
Arthur Stricker, who left Janesville last fall to establish a feeding station for stock at Sycamore, Ill., was in Janesville today. He says the season has been a very good one. While in the city he expected to buy some horses to be used on his Wisconsin ranch of 2,000 acres near Ladysmith. Western sheep are to be turned onto this tract to feed and if the experiment proves satisfactory preparations will be made there to take care of 10,000 head.

CURRENT NEWS NOTES.

Heavier Rails: The new rails which are being laid by the street railway company are much heavier than those at present in use. The portion of Main street from Court street to Milwaukee street will not be torn up until after the circus leaves the city.

Fined for Drunkenness: John Smith was fined $2 and costs for drunkenness in municipal court this morning. The case of James Clark, arrested for the same offense, was adjourned pending good behavior.

"Indians" Triumphant: By the score of 11 to 10 the third ward "Indians" defeated the third ward "Woggle Bugs" in a baseball game played back of the courthouse this morning.

Marriage License: Application for a marriage license has been made by Martin Oberdick and Annie Fletke, both of Edgerton.

Attention, W. R. C. Ladies: are requested to meet at the vacant store on North Main street Monday, the 29th, to make wreaths. All children please bring flowers.

Aged Lady Injured: Mrs. Julietta M. Metcalf, an aged lady residing at 109 South Jackson street, fell down a flight of stairs yesterday and was seriously injured, though no bones were fractured.

Launch Piloted by Bert Van Houten Struck a Stump and Stove in Plank Near Crystal Springs.

Bert Van Houten and a party consisting of his wife and several members of the Grindel-Davis Stock Co. had a thrilling experience on the river yesterday afternoon. They were on their way up the river in the fast twenty-six foot gasoline launch which Mr. Van Houten purchased of Arthur Jones, and were scudding along in mid-stream just this side of Crystal Springs in fifteen feet of water when the craft suddenly struck a submerged stump and stove in a plank four inches wide. The boat began to fill rapidly with water and Captain Van Houten, with perfect presence of mind, headed her for the nearest shore point and drove her in at full speed. Just as the prow struck the bank the rear end of the craft, having accumulated several barrels of water, sank, and the whole boat was under the waves a moment after the members of the party had leaped to dry land. Later in the day the boat was skidded up onto the shore with the aid of heavy timbers and the hull repaired. She was afloat and ready for another voyage today.

BEAUTIFUL WREATH SENT FROM SWEDEN

Received by Paul Iverson, and Will Be Placed on Grave of the Late Haakon Ringer

Paul Iverson, 216 South Academy street, has received a beautiful wreath
of flowers and foliage from Sweden, which was sent to be placed on the grave of the late Haakon S. Ringer, who it will be remembered, was killed
in an auto accident at Chicago Heights a little over a year ago. The young man was speeding homeward
in his car about eight in the evening and turning from the middle of a rural road to avoid a collision with a farmer's wagon, ran into the ditch, overturning the machine. He was pinned underneath and drowned in the water standing along the highway.
The young man's remains were brought to this city and interred in the cemetery here, being a nephew of Mr. Iverson. The wreath is more than two feet in diameter and most beautifully arranged. Its composition is of immortelles, the famous everlasting flower; roses, which are not withered and dry; ferns, and other green foliage. It is tied with an exceptionally wide black ribbon on the ends of which are prettily inscribed in the Scandinavian language: "From sorrowing parents, brothers and sister" and "Our not forgotten Haakon."

The immortelles are a never withering flower grown in southern France and the hot-houses of northern Europe
and predominated in the floral tribute of Queen Victoria at the time of her death. The wreath was prepared by a Stockholm florist, two brothers of the deceased being students in the university there. Its shipment to America was from Sundsva, a large northern shipping point on the coast of the North sea, where Mr. Ringer was born and where his father, mother, brothers and sister now make their home. It was sent on the fifth of April in order to reach here on the fifth of May, the anniversary of Mr. Ringer's burial, but we delayed by the strike in Chicago and will be placed on the grave Memorial day. There was duty of thirty-five cents charged on the wreath.

SOCIETY.

Kenneth Jeffris was the host of his fellow members of the Rusk Lyceum debating society of the high school at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Jeffris on south Franklin street Thursday evening. The occasion was one of the most pleasurable social affairs in the history of the organization. A bountiful and elaborate supper was served and following it was given a program of toasts and extemporary talks, similar to those which comprise a part of the regular work of the club. The after-dinner program was as follows: Remarks, H. C. Buell; remarks, Lavern Brooks; extemporary speeches—"The Beef Trust and the Government Investigation," Lester
Strang; "The Renaming of Boston," Edward Hyzer; "The Progress of China," Clayton Fisher; "Prison Reforms," Robert Jensen; "Joseph Jefferson," Orville Swift; "John Reagan," Jerome Davis; "The Senate's Plot
Against the Pure Food Laws," Floyd Davis; remarks, Harvey Bailey. The talks were all excellent and the toasts by Mr. Buell, the critic and the president of the Lyceum were bright and delightful.

On Monday evening next the fourth piano recital for the season of nineteen hundred and five, will be given by the Schumann club at Eldred hall in the library building. The program will be given by Mrs. John Fuller Sweeney and is as follows:

Yesterday afternoon the last meeting of the history department of the Janesville Art League was held at the home of Mrs. Walter Helms. The subject was "Christianity in Ancient Rome" and interesting papers were read by Mrs. Mills, Mrs. Edden, and Mrs. Tarrant. The reports of Mrs.
Scarlles and Mrs. Kimberley, delegates to the district convention, were given. The study program was followed by music and the serving of very tempting refreshments. The art department of the league holds its last meeting on June 2 at which time
"The Palatine Hill and the Cata-combs" will be discussed. Invitations for summer picnics have been received from Mrs. William Porter and Mrs. Scarlles.

Miss Mary Gage, duet by Prof. and Mrs. J. S. Taylor and instrumental music by Miss Caldwell. Supper was served at five o'clock, at which a hundred ladies sat down. The Beloit party returned on the six o'clock car.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Browne arrived in Janesville Friday for a visit of several weeks with Mr.
Browne's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. H.
Pelton, 155 Glen street. Mrs. Browne expects to meet many of her friends and acquaintances while here. Mr.
Browne is a member of the firm of Browne, Windes & Co., Chicago, dealers in country real estate.

Mrs. D. B. Clark left this morning for her future home in Portage.

FINED FOR SELLING LOW GRADE MILK

F. Rossiter of Town of Magnolia,
Has To Pay $25 for Cooling Fluid with Ice.

F. Rossiter of the town of Magnolia pleaded guilty in municipal court this morning to the charge of selling milk
that did not come up to test and paid
the minimum fine of $25. Another dairyman was brought into court but owing to some misunderstanding regarding the findings at Madison, his case was adjourned. If Mr. Rossiter's statements are correct the law works
a great hardship on him in this instance. In order to keep his milk cool he used a piece of ice and the small quantity of water that came from it when it melted was sufficient, apparently, to lower it below the test limit. Inasmuch as the dairies are supposed to test all the milk they buy,
pay for it according to its test value,
and are not obliged to buy if it is too
"thin," it would seem that great injustice is done the dealer who offers
it for sale without knowing that it is deficient and is then compelled to pay a heavy fine for so doing. Moreover, the dealer who peddles milk to customers who are unable to make any tests escapes interference unless the health officer chooses to experiment, which he seldom does, while the man who sells his dairy which is imply protected by its testing facilties, has to suffer if there is anything wrong with the milk he sells.
Low grade milk may come from the best grass if its food happens to be poor for a few days and it may frequently happen that the best grade of fodder or pasture is not to be obtained in a given instance.

STRIKE CHECKS CHICAGO TRADE

Chicago, May 27.—Dun's review of local trade conditions in Chicago has
this to say of the present situation:
"The worst feature of the business situation is entirely due to further spreading of labor troubles. With the struggle now carried into productive branches and reinforced idleness probable among large bodies of workmen obstruction becomes intensified and requires prompt relief.

"Except the local disturbance trade generally exhibited strong tone
throughout the Chicago district and the indications are good for continued
industrial prosperity with the present difficultly removed.

"In actual results the week's progress affirms the inherent strength of commerce. Money remained in fair demand and bank exchanges made the largest gain during this month as compared with a year ago.

Production Is Large.
"Production in the leading branches
is without diminution and new commitments were made to a satisfactory extent. Wholesale transactions reached a fair volume in staple merchandise, deliveries were larger and State street activity was stimulated by better demand for seasonable wares. Country advices have been very encouraging, farm work showing rapid recovery from effect of recent heavy rains, crop prospects remaining good and merchandising expanding.

"Western railroad traffic sustains exceptional magnitude, earnings steady-ly exceeding those of a year ago.
Heavy movement of manufactured
materials, raw products and general merchandise provided most of the tonnage. Marketing of grain has declined 22 per cent, but this is due to temporary causes. Shipments from this port were 7.4 per cent smaller than for corresponding week of 1904
and live stock receipts were slightly lower, but the outgo of provisions was heavier and stocks suffered some reduction.

Hides and Leather.
"Receipts of hides, 3,888,184 pounds,
compared with 3,518,137 pounds a year ago. The markets for hides and leather exhibit steadiness in demand and prices, with deliveries still large.

Receipts of lumber were 53,243,000
feet, against 41,368,000 feet last year, and general demand was good for yard stocks. Building work has not been interfered with and the value of new construction authorized largely exceeded both previous week and year ago.

"Crop reports played a strong part in the markets for the two leading cereals, and, these being mainly unfavorable and the May options much oversold it was not found difficult to manipulate sharp advances in quotations.

"Live stock receipts were 261,004
head, compared with 256,586 head a year ago. Shipping demand weakened in heavy beefs and hogs and sheep found ready absorption. Compared with the closing a week ago prices are unchanged in oats, ribs, hogs and sheep, but are lower in cattle 5 cents per hundredweight, lard 7 1/2 cents and pork 15 cents, and higher in wheat 8 1/2 cents a bushel and in corn 9
cents."

WILL WORK OUT THE FINE AND THEN STOP BEING BAR-TENDER
This is the decision of Will Luebke whose father paid a fine
in Court.

Will Luebke, whose father, Frederick Luebke, paid a fine of twenty-five dollars and costs for having allowed his bar-tender to sell liquor to a minor, has decided to work his father's fine out, that is, work for his father as bar-tender until the fine is made up and then quit being a bartender. Young Luebke believed the little Wheelock boy when he asked for whiskey for his father, and served him. He is much broken up over the occurrence and says as soon as he has reimbursed his father for his act, he will seek other employment.

BLOOMINGTON RED IS NOW SUSPECTED

Thought To Have Done the Job at the Recent Beloit Silk Robbery.

"It is my opinion that 'Bloomington Red' and John Hess, the famous silk thieves, are on the rampage again," said A. N. Nort of Beloit, who is at the Hotel Pfister in Milwaukee. "The Bartley goods establishment of the Bartley company, with which I am connected in Beloit, was looted on Wednesday night of a quantity of silk,
aggregating in value about $2,000,
and the manner in which the burglary
was committed and the select quality of the goods taken, leads me to believe that it is the work of the famous pair of thieves.

"My store was robbed of valuable silks twice in 1900, the goods taken being of the most costly quality and being worth over $6,000. It was the theory of the police at the time that 'Bloomington Red' did the job. After the second robbery I had the silk storefront of the store lined with sheet iron. On Wednesday night the invaders tried to cut through this sheet iron three times, and failing, they broke down the door. It must have been getting late and almost daylight when they finally made an entrance, because they did not clean us out as thoroughly as in the other two instances.

"Bloomington Red," alias John Wilson, is one of the slickest silk thieves in the business. He has always been more or less immune from conviction because, even when captured with the dry-goods on him it is exceedingly hard to identify silks, as the law holds necessary.

"In 1901 he was convicted with his partner, John Hess, and given an indeterminate sentence at Joliet, from which penitentiary the pair are now out on parole. Silk stores in Madison, Wis., and in Dubuque and Cedar Rapids, Ia., have been recently robbed, and this leads me to believe that Wilson and Hess are up to their old tricks again."

Burr McIntosh Monthly.

The Burr McIntosh Monthly for June, the first of the summer numbers of this magazine of pictorial perfection, is certainly attractive enough to please any one who delights in high class photographic reproductions. The color work is exceedingly dainty, the pages in color being printed on tinted paper. In the theatrical section, superb portraits are shown of Lillian Russell as Lady Teazle, Amelia Bingham, Bonnie Maginn, Grace George, the ever popular Denham Thompson, Blanche Walsh and several others with reproductions of scenes from all of the most popular plays of the season.
The panoramic pictures cover scenes in Persia, Canada, Hawaii with an exceedingly unique and careful selection of views in different parts of the United States. The publishers are extending their biographies of theatrical people so with this feature of the magazine readers will soon have valuable bits of information concerning the popular actors and actresses.

The Magazine is now on all news
stands, 25 cents a copy.
Burr McIntosh Monthly occupies a field apart from all other publications.
It is a work of art from cover to cover,
and once in a home will be welcomed as a regular visitor. If you have never seen it call for it and you will be sure to call again.

TRUE

Before Mother's Friend was introduced.

The older the prospective mother be the more difficult the ordeal through which she must pass before she experiences the glory of the maternal state. This was true before was introduced, but now tangible evidence in the shape of countless mothers of advanced years who have used it with entire success forces us to gladly refute the integrity of this statement.

Old or young, the result is the same. It is simply indispensable during the puerperal state and absolutely invaluable at the crucial time.

For external massage, easy and simple to apply, wonderful in its effect, it surely is a living monument to the truth of that old adage, "What's in a name?" We reply, "simply Mother's Friend." $1.00, at all druggists. Send for book, "Motherhood." It is free.

STATE OF WISCONSIN—COUNTY COURT FOR ROCK COUNTY—In Probate.

Notice is hereby given that at a special term of the county court, to be held in and for said county, at the court house, in the city of Janesville, in said county, on the third Tuesday, to-wit: the 22nd day of June, 1905, at nine o'clock a. m. the following matter will be heard and considered:

The application of Mrs. Rollins, for the appointment of an administrator of the estate of Jennie W. Twiss, late of the city of Janesville, in said county, deceased.

Dated May 27th, 1905.

By His Court: J. W. SALES, County Judge.

E. D. McGowan, Atty for Petitioner.

"Uncle Joe Cannon"

our honored speaker of the House of Representatives, has thoroughly mastered the laws governing parliamentary debate. JOHN GUND, Wisconsin's famous pioneer brewer, has thoroughly mastered the Natural Laws governing the fermenting and brewing of a perfect malt beer. Hence has been celebrated for over fifty years throughout the Mississippi Valley as a standard of unequalled purity—of commanding superiority—full of health and strength—because it is brewed in an environment of exacting cleanliness under the "Gund Natural Process." From nature's richest barley, malt and hops, and water flowing clear from granite rocks. Bottled only at the brewery. Sold at all first-class bars, buffets and hotels. Ask for it and keep asking until you get it. When you merely call for "beer" you often get immature and poorly brewed beers, which are not properly aged, thereby causing biliousness, but if you ask for "PEERLESS" and insist on getting it, you get "the best in the west." Telephone our agent at once and have a case of this matchless beer delivered to your home this very day. It will preserve your health and gladden your heart.

CHAPTER V.

AND WHO IS THE AFORESAID MARIETTE? Detective John Lamm, whose experience had rendered his views of life rather more broad than the prosy theorist who judges the world from his commonplace associates, was not unaware of the existence of the emotional drama in real life.

The scene which he had just witnessed did not therefore seem incredible in itself, but the time and circumstances at and in which it had occurred rendered it, in John Lamm's estimation, of a most peculiar and astounding nature. As yet his ideas were too disorderly and confused to enable him to draw logical deductions. The moment had not yet come for theories and explanations. He could only stand still with bated breath and rapid pulse and await the outcome of the strange situation.

When Marion faints Stella, pale and trembling, and looking very unlike her smiling and roguish self, as the photograph had proclaimed her, ran down to her assistance, and while Aunt Comfort was ambulating aimlessly, wringing her fat hands and reflecting audibly that she couldn't see why on earth she wasn't already crazy, she was making repeated and intelligent efforts at restoration. The sprinkling of water, which Stella procured without summoning the servants, eventually having the effect of causing the eyelids, upon which some of the drops fell, to unclose, Marion murmured some incoherent words, arose, and with her sister's help, staggered to a chair, where she sat for several minutes as motionless and as speechless as if she had been in a trance. Aunt Comfort, suddenly awakening to her responsibilities, ran to fan her with a book cover, murmuring continuously soothing and reassuring expressions.

Marion did not appear to notice her, though the detective saw the girl's eyes more than once following her sister's motions in a relentless, questioning way. Mr. Lamm hoped for some conversation which would throw light on the dramatic charade that had been enacted in his presence, but he was disappointed.

A ring at the doorbell fell with startling effect upon the silence of the house. Stella fled precipitately to the upper regions, while Aunt Comfort, with her hand on her heart, stared apprehensively at the door. It was Marion herself who waved back the advancing servant with an imperious gesture and went resolutely to answer the summons.

"Bless me!" Mr. Lamm exclaimed within himself. "It's my risky client!"

And behold on the threshold, hat in hand, a bit flushed and embarrassed, and with an expression of lively solicitude as he greeted the occasion, Mr. Richard Pettigrew!

"You come at a sad time, sir," murmured Aunt Comfort, walking aimlessly between the door and the staircase.

"I am very glad you are here, Mr. Pettigrew," Marion said, in collected tones. "If we ever needed a friend, it is at this moment."

"I need not say with what eagerness I shall avail myself of any opportunity to aid you, Mrs. Stackhouse," he said, earnestly.

She looked him directly in the eyes. "Not Mrs. Stackhouse, Marion North."

He made a painful effort to appear unembarrassed, but it was quite evident that he was gravely alarmed.

"You—you know—" he stammered. "Everything," she returned, with a scornful, bitter accent.

"Good heavens!" he ejaculated, in ill-concealed alarm. "Who told you?"

She made no reply in words, but with a simple gesture indicated the Weak Stomach.

A weak stomach is most frequently caused by the overworked and exhausted nervous system.

The power that runs the stomach is the nerve force sent to it from the brain through the nerves. When the nerves are weak or exhausted the supply of energy is insufficient and the action of the stomach is impaired, and results in imperfect digestion—dyspepsia.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine increases nerve force. It strengthens and builds up nerve tissue, gives vigor to the nerves and muscles of the stomach; this produces a healthy activity.

Nervine allays the inflammation, heals the membranes, and makes the stomach strong and healthy. There is nothing that so quickly gives energy to the whole system as Restorative Nervine.

"I can't say enough for Dr. Miles' Nervine. I don't know if it will do for others, but it certainly cured me of stomach trouble, and now I am as well as I ever was. Two physicians failed to relieve me, but in three or four days after taking Nervine I was much relieved. Four bottles made me a sound man, at the cost of $4.00."

Intentionally Detective Lamm cast a keen, searching glance full into the face of the stoical young woman. His idea was to intimidate rather than to observe her, for he had a furtive way of scrutinizing people without appearing to do so. It was ineffective. Not even her eyelashes quivered.

"Utterly," she said, firmly. "And now, sir, are you satisfied?"

"Unfortunately, no," said Lamm, glancing uneasily at Aunt Comfort. "Could I—would it be presumptuous in me—to ask for a private interview?"

Marion drew a full breath. There was a slight quiver as she did so, which seemed to indicate that her calmness was the result of rigid repression of her spontaneous emotions. She motioned Aunt Comfort towards the hall.

"Well, sir?" she said as soon as they were alone. John Lamm saw that she had no intention of prolonging the interview. He resolved to break the ice of her reserve with one fell crush.

"Tell me," he said, without preface, "who is Marie Moysso?"

She could not repress the start nor the tell-tale blush that rose into her cheeks. But she made a brave effort which aroused John Lamm's unspoken admiration.

"Why do you ask?" Only this in a faint voice, as a response to this unexpected bombshell.

"Because," he said, boldly, "there is reason to believe that such a woman is mixed up in this affair."

"Ah!" she returned coldly, "I know nothing of her. Really, Mr. Officer, you must excuse me if you have nothing more to say than this. The occasion is too grave—to solemn. You should go to Mr. North's partner, Mr. Stackhouse. He can tell you more about it than anybody else."

"She is one woman in ten thousand!" he muttered to himself as he walked away. "At her age such self-command is as uncommon as a lottery prize. Well, we'll try again."

Some inquiries assured him that it was not far to the seaside residence of Richard Pettigrew. In five minutes after leaving Marion's presence he was bowing before the astonished Pettigrew, whom he met on the veranda overlooking the ocean.

"You here?"

"So it would seem, Mr. Pettigrew."

"And what can you have discovered so soon?"

"I'll tell you. It is a simple clue and may not lead to much. Still I must beg leave to ask your assistance. I wish to put a question, stipulating that you do not ask me any in return. You see, I am not ready to make a report yet."

Pettigrew slightly frowned. Evidently he did not relish mysteries.

"Ask your question, Mr. Lamm."

"Who is Marie Moysso?"

Pettigrew sprang up with a force that overturned his chair.

"The deuce!" he ejaculated. "How came you by that name?"

"Ho, ho!" quoth John Lamm in his mind. "This gentleman does not guard his secrets so well as the lady yonder."

"I must remind you, Mr. Pettigrew," he returned, quietly, "that you were not to ask questions. Still, I don't mind telling you that the woman seems to be in some way connected with our friend Stackhouse."

"Humph! I shall begin to regard you as a wizard, rather than a detective, Mr. Lamm," Pettigrew remarked, with an effort to conceal his astonishment.

"I must say I cannot conceive of what possibility you become possessed of that name. But since you have, I must remind you that you are working for me, and that whatever information you obtain ends with me. Nobody beyond us is to know a syllable. You understand that?"

"I should be wholly ignorant of my business if I did not."

"Very well. But about this Moysso woman—"

"And, by the way, how do you spell that, Mr. Pettigrew?"

Pettigrew spelled the name and Mr. Lamm wrote it down, smiling at his own mistake.

"French?"

"It's a Creole name; I believe."

"Oh, to be sure. And have you any idea of her whereabouts at this time?"

"She was in New York five years ago. I cannot say—though Mr. Stackhouse, who may find it convenient to keep track of her, perhaps can—what has become of her."

The two men looked at each other.

"Well," said Pettigrew, impatiently, "why do you ask me this? What possible connection can she have with this case?"

Not caring to betray himself by answering this question, John Lamm deemed it prudent to withdraw.

"I have barely time to catch the train back," he exclaimed, hurriedly glancing at his watch in the fading light. "I'll talk with you later, Mr. Pettigrew."

When at last, after a long conference with the "inside man" of the late Paul North, he was in the train on his way back to the city, he began writing an advertisement to be forwarded to a correspondent in New York for insertion in the daily papers there.

"Marie Moysso!—Any information as to whereabouts of Marie Moysso will be liberally rewarded by the undersigned. The lady herself will learn something to her advantage by addressing—"

"It's a slim chance," muttered the detective, "but still it may lead to something."

June Bride Sale

The Wedding Gifts

AMONG the happiest moments of a bride's life, one filled with the greatest pleasure, is when surrounded with the wedding gifts and alone she gives thanks for the many assurances of interest and affection which accompany them.

Each gift will go towards making more attractive and lovely the home which she has pictured so often and in which she intends to spend the happiest time of her whole life.

Every offering will bring back some fond memory of a devoted friend or relative, and will bind old associations with the new life to come.

In the selection of a wedding present much latitude is allowed.

It should be something useful and attractive.
